Descriptions of Program Service Accomplishments

Grant programs. During FY09, Water.org funded clean water and sanitation project grants in Bangladesh, Ethiopia, Ghana, Honduras, India, Kenya, and Uganda. Water.org reached nearly 137,000 individuals with access to clean drinking water, improved sanitation, and hygiene training in FY09. This intervention provides an immediate and sustainable improvement in the quality of life for people in developing countries.

In September 2009, Water.org co-founders Gary White and Matt Damon joined President Bill Clinton on stage at the Opening Plenary of the Clinton Global Initiative Annual Meeting to announce Water.org's expansion into Haiti and its $2 million commitment to bring at least 50,000 people clean water over the next three years.

WaterCredit. To date, Water.org has facilitated the disbursement of more than $1.8 million in microcredit loans for water and sanitation, resulting in 12,000 loans made, and more than 130,000 people served. Repayment rates are approximately 95-98 percent.

Water.org is one of the first organizations in the world to use microcredit to help people in developing countries finance their own water systems. By making small loans to communities and individuals who do not have access to traditional credit markets, WaterCredit helps finance the upfront cost of water and sanitation systems. Because the loans are repaid into a revolving fund, the multiplier effect means that many more people can be helped for the same philanthropic investment. And since users with a financial stake in their water supply projects have a greater incentive to ensure proper operations and maintenance, WaterCredit projects have built-in advantages for long-term sustainability.

In FY09, Water.org's partner organizations were able to obtain funding for the loans directly from the commercial banks, instead of through grants from Water.org. For donors, this translates into greater leverage for each dollar donated. By stimulating external capital (i.e. loans from commercial banks), less Water.org funding is needed for the program and more grant money can go to where it's needed most – to the poorest of the poor.

Partner Network Development. Water.org selects partner organizations in developing countries with a strong success record of implementing safe water and sanitation projects. As part of its capacity-building efforts, Water.org certified 5 new partner organizations in FY09. Water.org maintains liaison offices in both India and Kenya.

Outreach. Water.org raises awareness of the global water crisis and its efforts to address it through a variety of mediums, including but not limited to: its www.water.org website; social media outreach; traditional media relations; distribution of its electronic and printed newsletter and annual report; and through presentations at top conferences around the world. As part of our online outreach efforts, Water.org developed new technologies that make it easier for Facebook and Twitter users to spread our message.

In March 2009, Water.org received the Skoll Award for Social Entrepreneurship and Water.org Executive Director and Co-Founder Gary White was inducted in the Skoll community of social entrepreneurs. The award is presented by the Skoll Foundation to recognize the most innovative and sustainable approaches to resolving the world's most urgent social issues. The Skoll Foundation was created by eBay's first president, Jeff Skoll. The award carried with it a grant of $765,000 for Water.org to help reach more people with access to clean water and sanitation through our WaterCredit Initiative and innovative online community-building efforts.

Also of note, Water.org sponsored an important World Water Day event in India. More than 20,000 women, men, and children gathered together at the National Institute of Water and Sanitation on March 22 to recognize the importance of water, sanitation and hygiene, to celebrate improvements made in their villages, and to rally support for future efforts.
